From January 6-7, 2023, teachers and students of the Centre for Contemporary Dance (CCD) at the University for Music and Dance Cologne will offer a peek into artistic training forms, practices and working methods in contemporary dance.

This offer is aimed at adolescents and young adults (aged 16 and above) who are interested in studying contemporary dance in an academic setting and wish to learn more about the specific profile of the CCD. Participation is free of charge.

The participants will be able to put together their own personal training and workshop program from various offers in order to follow their individual interests. In the different formats, they have the opportunity to engage in discussions and conversations with the teachers and students and exchange ideas in group-oriented processes.
